PREFACE.

THE Publishers are glad to announce the publication of this edition of the NEWPORT DIRECTORY at an earlier date than usual. It is a work of considerable magnitude to canvass, compile, print and bind this book after the business of the season is fairly opened and our summer visitors all located, and complete it in time for reference and use during the period of Newport's greatest activity. This has been accomplished by untiring efforts and with as much speed as is possible with due regard for accuracy and completeness.

It having been announced by interested parties that no Newport Directory would be published this year, we take this opportunity to inform our patrons and friends that it is an annual publication, and will continue to be issued regularly every summer by us, notwithstanding reports to the contrary. The numerous changes shown in the table below render it very necessary to revise the names every year.

Particular attention is called to the Directory of Summer Residents beginning on page 275.

The map has been thoroughly corrected, and many new streets added. For accuracy and beauty, our map has been pronounced by good judges to be the best one ever issued here. This map in covers will be sent by mail to any address on receipt of twenty-five cents by the publishers.

On page 12 may be found an interesting sketch of Newport's Reunion, July 4.

The improved STREET DIRECTORY, and other important features of previous editions have been retained. The plan of giving the names of deceased citizens, with date of death, and of some who have removed, is continued. For other valuable features attention is directed to the comprehensive Index to Contents.

The uniform courtesy and liberal patronage which have been extended to our agents indicate that the efforts we have made to faithfully represent the growth, enterprise, and business interests of Newport and her people have been appreciated, and we feel encouraged to continue the publication of the Directory with renewed purpose to merit the generous support received, and will endeavor, from time to time, to increase the value of the work by adding to it such means and methods of information as experience and judgment may suggest.

NEWPORT'S REUNION.

Our city's the fairest,
Our city's the dearest
Enthroned by the sapphire-blue sea;
She whispers, "Come hither!"
We answer, "Yes, thither,
We hasten, sweet mother, to thee."

Julia Ward Howe.

On the Fourth of July, 1884, Newport entertained her sons and daughters from far and near. Earnest and cordial had been the invitation, and hearty and joyous was the response, and hundreds whose homes were in other places returned to their birth-place to be honored by, and do honor to, their native city. Thousands of people — citizens and strangers — thronged the streets and entered into the enjoyments which a delightful day and an interesting and festive occasion could afford. Flags, bunting, streamers, and pennons, in great profusion, adorned the city, while paintings, emblems, and shields bearing appropriate mottoes and sentiments, added brilliancy to the decorations and inspiration to the scene. The harbor presented a gay appearance. The U. S. Training ships, steamboats, yachts, and nearly all vessels that floated in sight, were generously and artistically decorated. One of the most interesting features of the day was the procession — the longest and most imposing ever witnessed here — which, after passing through the principal streets, and countermarching on Broadway, proceeded to the tent on the Izard lot, where Mayor Franklin in an eloquent address welcomed the returned sons and daughters of Newport. A fine collation was then partaken of, after which Col. William A. Stedman, toastmaster of the occasion, began the interesting exercises which followed, with the reading of letters from President Arthur, and Rhode Island's U. S. Senators and Representatives. Toasts were then offered and responded to in the order here given:

"Our Beloved Little State of Rhode Island": Responded to by Gov. Bourn. "The Judiciary of Rhode Island": Chief Justice Durfee. "Brown University": Dr. E. G. Robinson, President Brown University. "The Early History of Rhode Island": Hon. Wm. P. Sheffield. "Our Returned Children from New York": Mr. Philander Shaw, of Brooklyn. "Our Sons and Daughters from Boston": Rev. Solon Bush. "Our Children from New Bedford": Mr. Benjamin Pitman. "Our Sons and Daughters from Providence": Mr. Freeborn Coggeshall. "Our Absent Children": This toast was responded to by the reading of letters from Ex-Gov. Van Zandt, Judge Pitman, and George Bancroft. "Our Adopted Children": Mr. Lucius D. Davis. "The Army": Lieut. A. B. Dyer. "The Navy": No response. "Newport volunteers": Rev. M. A. Nolan. "Newport, 1859-1884": Mr. Geo. Peabody Wetmore. "Our Business Interests": Hon. Thomas Coggeshall. "The Clergy": Rev. C. W. Wendte. "The Medical Profession": Dr. H. R. Storer. "The Press": Hon. J. P. Sanborn. "Our Public Schools": Mr. Geo. A. Littlefield.

During the exercises, poetic contributions from Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Mrs. R. P. Boss, and Mr. Benjamin Pitman, were read.

This is, indeed, a brief record of the principal features of a most interesting event, but it may serve (and perhaps in years to come be of some value) as a reminder of Newport's Reunion, July 4th, 1884.

THE IMPORTANCE

Of having Suitable Materials to do Outside Painting in

NEWPORT

is better understood each year, but the difficulty in the past has been to find a preparation that was adapted to the locality, or in other words, that would withstand the climatic changes and resist the action of SALT WATER. This trouble has happily been met by the Proprietors of the

Gutta Percha Paint Co.

who have patented a process of introducing GUTTA PERCHA and other valuable gums into linseed oil so as to make a preparation which will Hold the Colors, make a coating which resists the action of SALT WATER and SEA BREEZES, and at same time expand and contract without cracking. The Paint is SUPERIOR TO EVERY OTHER PREPARATION IN THE WORLD for all outside work, especially on Metallic Surfaces, such as Tin Roofs, Etc. No other paint approximates it in DURABILITY.
